

Degree Evaluation

WSU uses online degree evaluation, a web-based advising tool used by students and advisors, to track progress toward graduation. The degree evaluation sorts a student's courses into different categories based on their chosen major(s)/minor(s) and indicates which degree requirements have been met and which remain to be completed before graduation.

Students who are undecided and students who are considering changing their majors can run a What-if Analysis to see how their courses would be applied toward possible degrees. While the degree evaluation does not replace advisors, it allows students and advisors more time to discuss their total development, including career and life planning. Advising includes helping students meet their full potential, technically, professionally and personally.

Degree evaluation tips:

- Degree evaluations are not considered official university documents and do not replace the official university transcript;
- Verification of degree requirements must go through a faculty or academic advisor;
- Students should contact their advisor if they have any questions regarding their degree evaluation.
