

Physical Therapy

Doctor of Physical Therapy

The physical therapy program prepares entry-level physical therapists. Graduates are prepared to evaluate neuromuscular, musculoskeletal, sensorimotor and related functions to determine the degree of muscle strength, motor development, motion, respiratory ventilation or peripheral circulatory efficiency of individuals. The physical therapist plans and implements appropriate interventions for clients to improve functional abilities and overall quality of life. Graduates are prepared to work in and across a variety of settings. Students enter the program in the summer semester only.

Please contact the physical therapy graduate program office at 316-978-5770 for the most recent information regarding the current curriculum plan.
