

ENGL - English

Courses numbered 99 or below do not count toward any degree program.

Courses numbered 100 to 299 = lower-division; 300 to 499 = upper-division; 500 to 799 = undergraduate/graduate.

ENGL 011. Syntax, Logic and Organization (3).

Reviews the basic elements of written English. Students write paragraphs and short essays. Combines lecture, small-group discussion and individual tutoring. For students whose ACT-English scores or placement test scores do not qualify them for ENGL 101. Credit not applied for graduation.

ENGL 013. Basic Skills for ESL I (3).

Teaches the fundamental elements of written and spoken English, emphasizing the acquisition of basic grammatical and syntactical structures and the writing of paragraphs and short essays. Credit not applied for graduation.

ENGL 015. Basic Skills for ESL II (3).

Extends the skills developed in ENGL 013. Students continue to practice using basic grammatical and syntactical structures, work on reading comprehension skills, and continue to master essay structure. Credit not applied for graduation. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 013 or satisfactory score on placement test.

ENGL 100. English Composition (3).

General education foundation course. Required composition course for non native-speaking students scoring below a certain level as determined by a departmental placement examination or ACT scores. Emphasizes reading and writing skills appropriate to academic discourse. Integrates the writing process, rhetorical modes and library skills into writing assignments related primarily to nonfiction readings. Substitutes as ENGL 101 for non native-speaking students. Prerequisite(s): qualifying score on ACT or placement exam, or successful completion of ENGL 013 or ENGL 015.

ENGL 101. College English I (3). †

General education foundation course. Focuses on developing reading and writing skills appropriate to academic discourse. Integrates the writing process, rhetorical modes and library skills into writing assignments related primarily to nonfiction readings. This is a Kansas Systemwide Transfer Course. Prerequisite(s): qualifying score on ACT or placement exam, or successful completion of ENGL 011.

ENGL 102. College English II (3). †

General education foundation course. Emphasizes critical reading, research and argumentation. ENGL 102 should be taken after ENGL 101 in the freshman year. This is a Kansas Systemwide Transfer Course. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101 with a C- or better.

ENGL 150. Workshop (1-4).

An umbrella course created to explore a variety of subtopics differentiated by letter (e.g., 150A, 150B). Not all subtopics are offered each semester – see the course schedule for availability. Students enroll in the lettered courses with specific topics in the titles rather than in this root course.

ENGL 150D. Crafting Your Memoir and Creative Nonfiction (0.5).

Join us as explore what makes for an effectively written memoir. We will look closely at successful memoirs over the ages and discuss what unites those efforts. This will also be a class where you will be encouraged to develop strategies to help you complete your own memoir whether you're writing your memoir for yourself, for specific others or for publication.

ENGL 150E. Early American Poetry and Ecology (0.5).

Discover the lush forests and concrete jungles of the United States as 19th-century American poets have recorded them. As the states were settled, early poets were straying from convention and exploring new forms. From the origins of "Home on the Range" to well-known authors such as Emily Dickinson and Robert Frost, this class follows along as poets break from the traditional British form and write about their natural surroundings. Topics of poetry include ecology, form, movements and influence of historical events.

ENGL 150F. Shakespeare (0.5).

Designed for everyone – whether new to Shakespeare or well-acquainted with his work – who wants to explore his work in depth. Students read a representative sample of Shakespeare's plays to acquaint themselves with the joys and complexities of his language and storytelling, consider some of the historical and literary influences on his work, and look at some film and stage performances of these plays to think about the ways Shakespeare's work continues to be reimaged.

ENGL 150G. Memoir: Transforming Your Life Story Through Focus and Craft (0.5).

Students begin the journey of transforming their life stories into well-crafted memoirs. Borrowing from literary techniques used in fiction, students finesse and focus their sagas into larger arcs that resonate and inspire readers. By engaging in concrete exercises, studies in craft, and close reading of successful memoirs for guidance and inspiration, students shape the events of their lives into impactful and meaningful narratives.

ENGL 150I. Shakespeare 2 (0.5).

Shakespeare is almost certainly the most widely read and performed English-language author, and his work remains relevant, thought-provoking and entertaining four hundred years after it was first written. This course is designed for everyone—whether new to Shakespeare or well-acquainted with his work—who wants to explore his work in depth. Students survey a selection of Shakespeare's plays and poems, talk about his life and the historical events that influenced his work, and look at how his writing appeared onstage and in print during his lifetime and beyond. Course includes diversity content. Repeatable for credit.

ENGL 150J. Shakespeare 3 (0.5).

Shakespeare is almost certainly the most widely read and performed English-language author, and his work remains relevant, thought-provoking and entertaining four hundred years after it was first written. This course is designed for everyone—whether new to Shakespeare or well-acquainted with his work—who wants to explore his work in depth. Students are going to take a wide-angle look at Shakespeare's works rather than focus deeply on a few plays. The course begins with a deep dive into his life and times, and each subsequent week focuses on how Shakespeare's work has persevered onstage, in print and online, and in cinema and on television.

ENGL 150K. The History of Detective Fiction (0.5).

The hard-boiled detective, the femme fatale, the whodunit – are likely familiar tropes of contemporary crime fiction. But what did representations of crime and punishment in literature look like before crime fiction was an established genre, or before there were even detectives or an organized police force? How did crime literature change with the advent of detective work? This course takes up these questions to study literary lawbreakers before and after the concepts of "crime" and "crime fiction" were formalized as the categories understood today. Participants discuss popular fiction of several time periods in order to trace the development of the literary genre of crime fiction. Participants also consider the different figures that populate the genre in these periods: the criminal, the police officer, the detective, and of course, the reader.

ENGL 150M. William Shakespeare and Christopher Marlowe (0.5).

William Shakespeare and Christopher Marlowe were two of the brightest stars of the early English theatre, and may have collaborated on a few plays. But while Shakespeare would go on to a long, prosperous career, writing a substantial canon of plays and poems that continue to be widely read and staged, Marlowe died young and violently, with a powerful but small and indifferently preserved body of drama and poetry. This class looks at major texts by these authors in tandem to consider what both of them contributed to theatrical and cultural history.

ENGL 152. Language of Food (3).

General education humanities course. Cross-listed as LING 152. Examines how the way we talk about food offers a window into history, psychology, culture and economics. Students are asked to think critically about language and taste as well as to explore the hidden meanings and influence of the language that surrounds us. Analyzes the language of food through menus, recipes, Yelp reviews, TV food shows, as well as the history and etymology of food words. Examples are drawn from American, African, Asian food and culture and beyond. Course includes diversity content. Course includes service-learning content.

ENGL 202BA. Badge: Achieving Cultural Competency Through Narratives of Intersectionality (0.5).

Uses reading, discussion and reflective writing to explore the ways intersectionality can help service providers understand the barriers to and opportunities for service engagement, healing and self-determination of those traditionally marginalized or oppressed. May not be counted for credit in the English major or minor. Course includes diversity content. Graded Bg/NBg.

ENGL 210. Composition: Business, Professional and Technical Writing (3).

ENGL 210BB. Professional Writing Badge: Professional Correspondence, Emails and Memos (0.5).

Emphasizes how to successfully compose professional correspondence including emails and memos. Using open educational learning materials, students learn the basics of audience-specific, professionally written communication for paper and paperless correspondence. In addition to understanding best-practices for a variety of approaches, students learn how to avoid common errors and misunderstandings. May be "stacked" with ENGL 210BA, 210BC, 210BD, 210BE and 210BF for ENGL 210 credit. Graded Bg/NBg.

ENGL 210BC. Professional Writing Badge: Writing for Social Media (0.5).

Emphasizes how to successfully write for various social media. Using open educational learning materials, students learn how to develop a unique and professional social media tone directly applicable to their field of business. Students also learn about the proper written composition for social media, discuss written social media opportunities, and ultimately produce a professional blog of their own. May be "stacked" with ENGL 210BA, ENGL 210BB, ENGL 210BD, ENGL 210BE, ENGL 210BF for ENGL 210 credit. Graded Bg/NBg.

ENGL 210BD. Professional Writing Badge: Editing Social Media (0.5).

Emphasizes how to successfully edit personal social media accounts to highlight professionalism. Using open educational learning materials, students learn how to analyze personal social media accounts for unprofessionalism in images and text. Students also learn about professional social media accounts and how they can be used in job searches and for professional networking. May be "stacked" with ENGL 210BA, ENGL 210BB, ENGL 210BC, ENGL 210BE, ENGL 210BF for ENGL 210 credit. Graded Bg/NBg.

ENGL 210BE. Professional Writing Badge: Researching Grants that Apply to You (0.5).

Explores ways to successfully research and identify grants that apply to the student's professional career. Using open educational learning materials, students learn about different resources available to them for grant research. Students also learn how to identify the most applicable grants for them or their company. At the conclusion of the course, students create a grant writing action plan they would potentially like to complete for one of the grants they have identified. May be "stacked" with ENGL 210BA, ENGL 210BB, ENGL 210BC, ENGL 210BD and ENGL 210BF for ENGL 210 credit. Graded Bg/NBg.

ENGL 210BF. Professional Writing Badge: Presenting Online (0.5).

Emphasizes how to successfully complete an online presentation. Using open educational learning materials, students learn to prepare presentation materials. Students also learn about the proper etiquette of online presentations, discuss etiquette with their peers, and ultimately complete a successful online presentation for their instructor. May be "stacked" with ENGL 210BA, ENGL 210BB, ENGL 210BC, ENGL 210BD, ENGL 210BE for ENGL 210 credit. Graded Bg/NBg.

In the course, students analyze the texts and discuss class, gender and race issues presented by the works. Course includes diversity content. Pre- or corequisite(s): ENGL 101.

ENGL 333. Literature and Law (3).

General education humanities course. Legal themes have long permeated Western literature. Prior to the Civil War, most lawyers and judges were well educated in Greek and Roman classics, and since the late 19th century the study of law required "a full possession of the general literature of ancient and modern times." Focusing on law in literature rather than law as literature, this class explores legal themes found in fiction, plays, nonfiction, film and television—with the objective of exploring essential legal themes like ethics, morality, justice, equality, human rights, crime and punishment. The course emphasizes how these themes relate not only to literary works, but also to modern legal and ethical issues, and contemporary perceptions of jurisprudence. The course requires no prior legal knowledge, and it is not a course in the study of law. This course should be of interest to anyone who wants to engage with the role of law in culture, the legal and literary representation of justice, and how law uses language. Pre- or corequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 340. Shakespeare (3).

General education humanities course. Surveys the plays and poetry of William Shakespeare, read with attention to the historical and cultural contexts of his time. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 343. Great Plains Literature (3).

General education humanities course. Covers literature written about the region from Kansas north into southern Canada and from the Mississippi River to the Rocky Mountains. Texts include works by Willa Cather, O.E. Rolvaag and Mari Sandoz, as well as works by contemporary authors including Native Americans. Topics include contemporary environmental issues and the history of exploration and settlement. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 344. Regional Literature (3).

General education humanities course. Introduces students to the literature of a particular regional culture or cultures (e.g., literature of the American South, New England regionalism) and examines how that literature relates to a larger national (American or British) tradition. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 346. American Multicultural Literature (3).

Provides broad exposure to the literature of various cultures in the U.S., including African-American, Native-American, Asian-American, Chicana/o and immigrants from other cultures. Course includes diversity content. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101, 102.

ENGL 363. Major American Writers II (3). †

General education humanities course. Covers important works of American writers from the end of the 19th century to the present. This is a Kansas Systemwide Transfer Course. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 365. African-American Literature (3).

General education humanities course. Surveys the most significant African-American writers from the 1700s to the present. Covers early slave narratives and early slave poetry to the Harlem Renaissance; student reading, discussion and writing begin with the Harlem Renaissance and end with the 1970s. Course includes diversity content. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 374. Literature in the Audio Age (3).

General education humanities course. This course is as much about listening as it is about reading. In fact, the central question of this class is whether listening can itself be a form of reading. Together students study the history and impact of a diverse array of audio literature in three major forms: radio, audiobook and podcast. Students investigate the appeal of listening to books, the strategies and characteristics of producing literature in audio, and the ways understanding texts can change through listening. Now that society is well into the audio age, people must ask: to what extent do authors write for audio production today? How has audio changed the landscape of what literature is and what it can do? Can people still assess literature in the same ways when they listen to it? This course is not a communications course in audio production; rather, this course approaches the study of literature through audio forms. The course therefore approaches the topic from the perspective of literary analysis and the broader history of text technologies and reading. Course includes diversity content. Pre- or corequisite(s): ENGL 101.

ENGL 375. Popular Literature (3).

An umbrella course created to explore a variety of subtopics differentiated by letter (e.g., 375A, 375B). Not all subtopics are offered each semester – see the course schedule for availability. Students enroll in the lettered courses with specific topics in the titles rather than in this root course. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 376. Writing Graphic Narratives (3).

General education humanities course. Graphic narratives (graphic novels, comics, comix and more) bring together text and genre-specific ways. This course seeks to examine and explore the graphic narrative by looking at diverse historical examples of graphic narrative scripts, completed comics, and industry-specific methods and expectations. Writers need not have any drawing experience or skill. The course includes a workshop for student-produced work in addition to lectures and discussions of canonical comic texts. Course includes diversity content. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 377. Graphic Novels (3).

General education humanities course. Introduces the history of sequential art and graphic novels. Explores social, cultural and aesthetic issues related to the form. Emphasizes the literary merit of the works and their relationship to other literary forms.

ENGL 378. Technologies of the Book (3).

General education humanities course. What is a book? Course addresses this question through a variety of readings about the history of text technologies and hands-on workshops. Addresses developments in writing, publishing, bookselling, copyright, and the physical features of books from the advent of humanity to the present day. Analyzes the contemporary publishing trade, digital platforms and the book, shifting conceptions of ownership, and potential future iterations of the book. Investigates how books, as social and material objects, impact readers and their societies. Pre- or corequisite(s): ENGL 101 and 102 or equivalent.

ENGL 379. Storytelling, Video Games, and Literature (3).

General education humanities course. Introduces students to literary theories that bridge literature and narrative-driven video games and game design. Specifically, this course aims to understand the unique structure of interactive narratives and their effects on those who play them. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101, 102.

ENGL 380. Special Topics (1-3).

An umbrella course created to explore a variety of subtopics differentiated by letter (e.g., 380A, 380B). Not all subtopics are offered each semester – see the course schedule for availability. Students enroll in the lettered courses with specific topics in the titles rather than in this root course. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 380B. Writing Graphic Narratives (3).

Graphic narratives (graphic novels, comics, comix and more) bring together text and genre-specific ways. This course seeks to examine and explore the graphic narrative by looking at historical examples of graphic narrative scripts, completed comics, and industry-specific methods and expectations. Writers need not have any drawing experience or skill. The course includes a workshop for student-produced work in addition to lectures and discussions of canonical comic texts. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 380C. African American Literary Movements (3).

A study of literary and multimedia works, including fiction, drama, nonfiction, film, television and speeches to explore the sociological, historical and political experiences of the African American male through various literary movements in cultural, historical and political contexts within the 19th, 20th and 21st centuries. Course includes diversity content.

ENGL 390. The Bible as Literature (3).

Studies the Bible as a literary artifact through extensive readings in both Old and New Testaments. Points out literary techniques and discusses their meaning for the manner of composition of the Bible. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102.

ENGL 401. Fiction Workshop (3).

Advanced course. Manuscripts are critiqued to develop skill in writing, rewriting and polishing literary fiction. Repeatable for credit. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 301.

ENGL 403. Poetry Workshop (3).

Advanced course. Manuscripts are critiqued to develop skill in writing, rewriting and polishing literary poetry. Repeatable for credit. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 303.

ENGL 450. Independent Reading (1-3).

For majors and nonmajors who wish to pursue special reading or research projects in areas not normally covered in coursework. Repeatable once for credit. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and departmental consent.

ENGL 481. Cooperative Education (1-3).

Provides the student with practical experience, under academic supervision, that complements and enhances the student's academic program. Individual programs must be formulated in consultation with appropriate faculty sponsors and approved by departmental consent.

ENGL 503. American Literature I (3).

The major fiction, poetry and nonfiction prose of the classic American period. Discussions may include the historical evolution of American letters, the development of the novel and romance, the transcendental period, and the rise of Western and regional literatures. ENGL 508. Critical Studies in Film (3).
Subjects announced each semester. Intensive analysis of a particular film genre, period, director or theme, giving special attention to the historical, cultural, theoretical and technical contexts in which the films were made. Repeatable once for credit with a change of content. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102, one college-level literature or film course.

ENGL 512. Studies in Fiction (3).
An advanced study of prose fiction focusing on a particular period, subgenre or theme. Subjects announced each semester. Repeatable once for credit. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and one college literature course.

ENGL 515. Studies in Shakespeare (3).
An intensive focus on the literary, cultural and social impact of William Shakespeare's work from his time to the present. Subjects announced each semester. Repeatable once for credit. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and one college literature course.

ENGL 516. Studies in a Major Author (3).
An umbrella course created to explore a variety of subtopics differentiated by letter (e.g., 516A, 516B). Not all subtopics are offered each semester – see the course schedule for availability. Students enroll in the lettered courses with specific topics in the titles rather than in this root course.

ENGL 516A. Jane Austen (3).
In-depth study of Jane Austen's novels, with particular attention to their historical and cultural contexts, and their afterlives on popular culture.

ENGL 516B. Studies in a Major Author-Emily Dickinson (3).
Offers an in-depth study of Dickinson's poetry and prose. Throughout the semester students work with her writing—treating it as an object with textual, oral/aural and tactile elements—while also considering its placement within the everyday landscape of nineteenth-century America.

ENGL 517. Scriptwriting I (3).
General education humanities course. Cross-listed as THEA 516. Writing scripts for performance. Emphasizes both verbal and visual aspects of scriptwriting. If possible, the scripts are given in-class readings by actors. Prerequisite(s): instructor's consent.

ENGL 518. Scriptwriting II (3).
General education humanities course. Cross-listed as THEA 517. Writing scripts for performance in theatre, film, television and the Internet. Emphasizes both verbal and visual aspects of scriptwriting. If possible, the scripts are given in-class readings by actors. Prerequisite(s): instructor's consent.

ENGL 520. Epic and Romance (3).
Readings in classic and early Western narratives, beginning with Homer's Bronze-Age epic and ending with late medieval romance.

Examines the literary conventions and cultural assumptions that typify these works. Pays particular attention to the historical shift in interest from epic to romance as a reflection of broad changes, not only in literary form and content, but also in social customs and worldview. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and one college literature course.

ENGL 521. Medieval Literature (3).
Works by writers of the eighth to 15th centuries, often thematically or historically focused. Readings may include lyric poetry, epic, romance, saga and drama. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and one college literature course, or instructor's consent.

ENGL 522. Renaissance Literature (3).
Works by writers of the 16th through the mid-17th centuries, often thematically or historically focused. Readings may include poetry, drama, fiction and nonfiction prose. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and one college literature course, or instructor's consent.

ENGL 534. Studies in Young Adult Literature (3).
Introduces various genres of young adult literature. Overviews current scholarly and/or pedagogical approaches commonly found in the study of young adult literature. Course includes diversity content. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102; one college literature course recommended.

ENGL 536. Writing by Women (3).
Cross-listed as WOMS 536 and WOMS 381C. Explores various themes in critical approaches to literature composed by women writers, especially those whose works have been underrepresented in the literary canon. Genres and time periods covered, critical theories explored, and specific authors studied vary in different semesters. Course includes diversity content.

ENGL 540. Introduction to Critical Theory (3).
Introduces students to critical literary theory. Topics may include readings in gender theory, historicism, psychoanalytical theory, cultural criticism, Marxism, reader-response theory and deconstruction. May also offer a survey of classical and early-modern critical methodologies from Plato to the formalist schools of the early 20th century. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and/or instructor's consent.

ENGL 545. Literary Editing and Publishing (3).

Practical experience and theoretical consideration of literary journal publishing through work on Mikrokosmos and Mojo. Students read essays on the state of literary journal publishing now, on journal composition, editing, proofreading, typography and the business of journal publication, and after evaluating various literary journals, develop criteria for publication in Wichita State's journals. They evaluate submissions for the print and online journals and apply lessons on typography, design, layout, copyediting and proofreading to the production of Mikro and Mojo. Prerequisite(s): for undergraduate students: two upper-division creative writing classes. Pre- or corequisite(s): for graduate students: either (1) have one of ENGL 801, 803, 805 with concurrency or (2) meet the undergraduate prerequisite of two upper-division creative writing classes.

ENGL 546. Studies in Ethnic Literature (3).

Studies literature by a specific ethnic group or groups in the United States or Great Britain. Content varies by instructor, and subjects are announced each semester. Fosters an appreciation for the unique literary tradition of a distinct ethnic group or groups and gives students some understanding of the larger historical and national contexts in which that tradition emerged. Course includes diversity content. Repeatable once for credit with a change in topic. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and one college-level literature course.

ENGL 550. Independent Reading (1-3).

For majors and nonmajors who wish to pursue special reading or research projects in areas not normally covered in coursework. Repeatable once for credit. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102 and departmental consent.

ENGL 551. Independent Service-Learning Writing Project (1-3).

It is important for creative writers to engage with diverse worlds (environments, narratives, circumstances and characters) beyond the university campus and students' personal experience. This course allows advanced creative writing students to participate in a service-learning project that benefits communities beyond the university while fostering the development of the students' own creative work and/or their skills as facilitators/emissaries of creative writing. This course is enrolled individually like an internship or directed reading: a qualified student must find a faculty member willing to supervise the project, and the student and faculty member then determine together the parameters and expectations for the project. Enrolling students may choose to work with an established partner organization to follow an already designed pathway or, with sufficient advance planning and approval, may design a project working with another organization. Repeatable for a total of 6 credit hours. Course includes diversity content. Course includes service-learning content. Prerequisite(s): for undergraduates: ENGL 401, ENGL 403 or ENGL 505, as well as permission of the creative writing director and faculty supervisor; for graduate students: at least one graduate workshop in the relevant genre (ENGL 801, ENGL 803 or ENGL 805), as well as permission of both the creative writing director and a faculty supervisor.

ENGL 565. Multimodal Composition (3).

Introduces students to the interdisciplinary field of multimodal composition, which is usually defined as the incorporation of different communicative modes (linguistic, visual, aural, spatial and gestural) into the traditional skill of writing (static text on a page). Students consider foundational theories of multimodality and visual rhetoric, analyze real-world multimodal texts, and compose multimodal texts such as websites, infographics, podcasts and videos. Prospective and future educators also have the opportunity to consider how these concepts can be integrated with writing instruction. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and recommended one upper-division English class.

ENGL 576. Advanced Studies in the Graphic Novel (3).

Designed to allow in-depth study of the graphic novel with special emphasis on critical responses. Readings may be thematically or historically focused. Prerequisite(s): junior standing, ENGL 377, and at least one other college literature course or instructor's consent.

ENGL 577. Digital Textual Editing (3).

An introduction to textual theory and critical textual editing, focusing on the creation of digital editions. Through a series of workshops students apply the principles of textual editing to a number of literary authors and works, culminating in a final project of their design. Pre- or corequisite(s): ENGL 102; one 300+ level literature course is recommended.

ENGL 578. Media and Cultural Studies (3).

Explores texts in a variety of media, including film, television, music, theatre and others, using a critical approach informed by the methodologies of media and cultural studies. Students place these texts within their contextualizing theoretical, cultural and/or technological transformations, and engage with critical debates associated with the fields of media and cultural studies. Repeatable for credit.

ENGL 579. Introduction to Digital Humanities (3).

General education humanities course. Introduces students to some of the tools and projects that constitute the digital humanities, and considers issues raised by the field. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 101, ENGL 102, one literature course 200-level or above, or instructor's consent.

ENGL 580. Special Studies (1-3).

An umbrella course created to explore a variety of subtopics differentiated by letter (e.g., 580A, 580B). Not all subtopics are offered each semester – see the course schedule for availability. Students enroll in the lettered courses with specific topics in the titles rather than in this root course. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and one college literature course or departmental consent.

ENGL 580AJ. Literature of the Civil War (3).

Introduces students to the literary culture that emerged during the Civil War years, exploring how early American writers envisioned the political, creative and personal impact the war would have on American identity. Prerequisite(s): junior standing and one college literature course, or departmental consent.

ENGL 580L. Travel Seminar (3).

Provides students with a first-hand opportunity to experience the literature, history and culture of the United Kingdom and Ireland by exploring each country's major city, London and Dublin. Students learn about the historical and cultural importance of these cities through visits to various sites, schools and museums. The course includes some traditional lectures and readings posted online (in Blackboard), but the emphasis is primarily on experiential and nontraditional learning methods.

ENGL 581. Composition Practicum (1).

Required for all teaching assistants in English. Does not count for credit toward the MA or MFA degree. Focuses on techniques and strategies for teaching composition. Each participant enrolls in the syllabus group appropriate to the composition course they teach. Repeatable for credit. Prerequisite(s): appointment as a graduate teaching assistant in the department of English.

ENGL 582. Studies in Composition (3).

Focuses on composition studies broadly defined, including the important theories and histories of composition studies, through a mix of critical, creative, researched and pedagogical approaches. The course is designed for students with interests in composition, pedagogy, creative writing, and/or literature and who are comfortable practicing advanced research skills. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 102, junior standing or instructor's consent.

ENGL 585. Writer's Tutorial: Prose Fiction (3).

Tutorial work in creative writing in literary fiction with visiting writer. Repeatable for credit. Prerequisite(s): consent of creative writing director.

ENGL 586. Writer's Tutorial: Poetry (3).

Tutorial work in creative writing in literary poetry with visiting writer. Repeatable for credit. Prerequisite(s): consent of creative writing director.

ENGL 590. Senior Seminar (3).

In-depth study of a specialized literary topic. Emphasizes focused readings, interactive debate, individual research and the presentation of research reports and essays. Topics vary according to the specialization of the instructor. Required capstone course for the English major and should be taken during a student's final year of study. Not available for graduate credit. Prerequisite(s): completion of 18 credit hours toward the major.

ENGL 663. Languages and Language Attitudes in USA (3).

Cross-listed as LING 663. In this community-based research seminar, students examine the social, economic and educational ramifications of various languages and attitudes to these languages in the USA. Covers the linguistic intersection of race, gender and social class; compares standardized and Standard English to other dialects such as African American Vernacular English; and the role of linguistics in forming language policy. Takes a hands-on approach and involves students in research design and data analysis. Course includes diversity content. Course includes service-learning content.

ENGL 664. Quantitative Methods for Literary and Linguistic Studies (3).

Cross-listed as LING 664. Introduces the basic concepts of data analysis and statistical computing as used in literary and linguistic studies. Students get a better understanding of applying quantitative reasoning, visualization and data analysis to several problems in a wide range of fields in the humanities, such as linguistics, literature, and by extension, psychology and cognitive science. Students also consider practical applications of quantitative analysis in the humanities, including bibliometric and attribution study. Course includes diversity content.

ENGL 665. Advanced History of the English Language (3).

In-depth historical study of the English language tracing the history of how the language has changed across time. Considers Old, Middle, Modern and American English as well as newer World Englishes. Addresses the nature and mechanisms of language change over time and the social, political and other historical conditions related to such changes. Focuses on the particular phonological, morphological, syntactic, lexical and semantic changes that have happened diachronically, while touching on the literature and culture of the different historical periods. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 315/LING 315.

ENGL 667. English Syntax (3).

Cross-listed as LING 667. Studies the basic principles of English syntax, covering the major facts of English sentence construction and relating them to linguistic theory. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 315/LING 315 or equivalent, or departmental consent.

ENGL 668. Field Methods of Linguistics (3).

Cross-listed as LING 668. Students learn how to collect and analyze data from a language unknown to them by interacting with a native speaker – course language consultant. Students gain some familiarity with the phonetics, phonology, morphology and syntax of the language, while developing techniques for studying an unfamiliar language more generally and for managing the data collected. Repeatable three times for a total of 9 credit hours. Course includes diversity content. Course includes service-learning content. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 315/LING 315.

ENGL 680. Theory and Practice in Composition (3).

Introduces theories of rhetoric, research in composition and writing programs, and practices in schools and colleges. Students investigate the process of writing, analyze varieties and samples of school writing, and develop their own writing skills by writing, revising and evaluating their own and others' work. Designed especially for prospective and practicing teachers.

ENGL 686. Professional, Technical and Scientific Writing and Editing (3).

Introduces students to editing and writing in professional, scientific, technical and medical fields. Through careful reading and analysis of exemplary technical and scientific documents, students gain exposure to numerous writing genres produced for different audiences and contexts. They practice writing in several forms, which may include research summaries, press releases, procedures, specifications, infographics, public service announcements, fact sheets and popular science writing. Assignments help strengthen students' rhetorical awareness, as well as the precision, clarity and readability of their writing.

ENGL 700. Introduction to Graduate Study in English (3).

Prepares students to perform effectively in graduate classes in English. Covers: (1) basic bibliographical tools; (2) terminology both technical and historical; (3) various approaches to the study of literature, such as intrinsic analysis of a literary work, the relationships of biography to literary study, and the relevance of other disciplines, such as psychology, to literature; and (4) the writing of interpretative and research essays. Maintains a balance between criticism and research throughout the semester. Fulfills the university's professional and scholarly integrity training requirement covering research misconduct, publication practices and responsible authorship, conflict of interest and commitment, ethical issues in data acquisition, management, sharing and ownership for students who receive a grade of B or better.

ENGL 703. Seminar in American Literature I (3).

Advanced study of major issues and themes in fiction, poetry and nonfiction prose from the early American period to the Civil War, with attention to the social and cultural contexts that shaped the literary history of the colonial period and the early nation. Repeatable once for credit with a change of content and departmental consent. Prerequisite(s): completion of or concurrent enrollment in ENGL 700, or permission of English graduate coordinator.

ENGL 704. Seminar in American Literature II (3).

Advanced study of major issues and themes in fiction, poetry and nonfiction prose from the post-bellum period to 1920, with attention to the social and cultural contexts that shaped such trends as realism and modernism. Repeatable once for credit with a change of content and departmental consent. Prerequisite(s): completion of or concurrent enrollment in ENGL 700, or permission of English graduate coordinator.

Repeatable for credit with change of content and departmental consent. Prerequisite(s): completion of or concurrent enrollment in ENGL 700, or English graduate coordinator's consent.

ENGL 780. Advanced Theory and Practice in Composition (3).

For teaching assistants in English. Reviews new theories of rhetoric, recent research in composition, and new promising developments in composition programs in schools and colleges. Students are given practice in advanced writing problems, situations and techniques and may propose projects for further special study.

ENGL 781. Cooperative Education (1-3).

Similar to ENGL 481 in design and content, this course provides the student with practical experience, under academic supervision, that complements and enhances the student's academic program. Individual programs must be formulated in consultation with appropriate faculty sponsors and approved by departmental consent. Prerequisite(s): ENGL 700 and at least 12 total credit hours in graduate English courses.

ENGL 785. Current Theories in the Teaching of Writing (3).

Examines current areas of interest in rhetoric and composition. Specific topics vary from semester to semester but may include digital and multimedia composition; online writing instruction; language diversity; writing program administration; place, space and embodiment; transfer; and assessment. Students explore the teaching of writing in settings other than first-year composition, such as writing across the curriculum and writing in the disciplines, undergraduate writing majors, and business, technical and professional writing. Students leave this course with a fuller understanding of current research in rhetoric and composition and the many types of writing instruction available at colleges and universities.

ENGL 787. Writing and Invention (3).

Examines invention as a canon of rhetoric, a stage in the writing process, and a product of thinking, writing or making. Students survey theories of invention as they are expressed in rhetorical theory, composition pedagogy, historical works, and/or literature. Students consider the relationships among invention, originality and creativity, and the ways in which these concepts impact the teaching of English.
